

Winetinerary: Springfield & Branson, Missouri

Situated only 50 miles apart in southwest Missouri, Springfield and Branson create the heart of the Ozarks. These cities are known for attractions, shopping, entertainment, and of course wineries! With a wine trail connecting Springfield and Branson the one-day wine getaway options in this area are endless.

Nicknamed “Queen City of the Ozarks,” Springfield boasts civil war museums, historic downtown districts, parks, and unique wineries! Explore the Norwegian heritage and fruit wines offered at OOVVDA Winery and the refurbished 1905 farm house tasting room at Tyler Ridge Vineyard & Winery. Travel less than 25 miles northwest of Springfield to Walnut Grove where 7C’s Winery specializes in unique wines and meads. Just 35 miles east of Springfield is Seymour, MO you can visit the sheep farm winery setting of Lambs and Vines Winery then overlook a valley just north of the second highest point in the state at Whispering Oaks Vineyard & Winery. While in the Springfield area, be sure to visit Williams Creek Winery located in Mount Vernon one block south of the town’s historic courthouse square.

From Springfield, journey on Highway 65 south to Branson and be sure to make a stop in Galena at Lewsi Winery nestled on top of Virgin Bluff overlooking Table Rock Lake. Just north of Branson in Walnut Shade you’ll find another great stop at Bear Creek Wine Company. Branson is known as Missouri’s southern hub for entertainment; boasting concerts, shows, museums and amusement parks, Branson is also home to several wineries. Stone Hill Winery-Branson offers daily winemaking tours, tastings of award-winning wines and a distilling museum all in their 12,000 square foot location. Relax at the black stone bar or bottle your own wine at Mount Pleasant Winery and visit Lindwedel Winery to overlook bustling Branson from their hilltop settings.

The Ozark Mountain Wine Trail winds through picturesque countryside in and around the Springfield/Branson area. Be sure to check the events going on at the six wineries along the Ozark Mountain Wine Trail as you plan your outing in this region. The Ozarks are a great place for your Missouri wine-day getaway!
